	Jim and the Beanstalk Raymond Briggs	A retelling of the traditional Jack and the Beanstalk story by the well-loved children's author and illustrator Raymond Briggs (author of 'The Snowman' and 'Ug: Boy Genius of the Stone Age'). In this version, the giant has become weary with old age. When a young boy called Jim discovers a beanstalk, he climbs up it and tries to help the giant by providing him with glasses, false teeth and a wig. But will Jim survive when the giant regains his appetite?
	Ten Seeds Ruth Brown	A great book to introduce the idea of seed dispersal and life cycles. It tells the story of ten seeds, only one of which survives to grow into a lovely sunflower and produces new seeds to start the cycle again. The illustrations are full of detail and the text is compelling and accessible.
	Eddie's Garden: and How to Make Things Grow Sarah Garland	This picture book tells the story of a little boy called Eddie who wanted to make a garden. Eddie learns how to plant seeds and patiently care for them, as his garden becomes filled with all sorts of plants, flowers and vegetables.
	Oliver's Vegetables Vivian French and Alison Bartlett	This popular picture book tells the story of fussy eater Oliver, who will not eat anything but chips. One day Grandpa sets him a challenge that helps him to learn to try new foods from the vegetable patch and Oliver is surprised by what he finds out.
	Tree: Seasons Come, Seasons Go Patricia Heggarty and Britta Tekentrup	This beautifully illustrated book follows the seasonal changes of a tree through the four seasons. Dotted with hidden animals scampering through cut paper holes, each page of 'Tree: Seasons Come, Seasons Go' allows its reader to investigate and explore one tree's rich and varied life cycle.
